THE DYING EMPEROR.

He Still Holds out but Life is a Prolonged Torment.

BERLIN, April 18.—Improvement in the condition of the emperor continued yesterday evening, although the fever increased a little. He had a tolerably good night, though his sleep was somewhat interrupted by his coughing. His fever has not yet disappeared. The condition of the emperor is almost the same as yesterday. Physicians held a consultation this morning. Bismarck visited the emperor at 11 o'clock.

128 p. m.—The consultation held by the physicians this morning showed the emperor's condition less satisfactory than yesterday, but better than last evening. Last evening the emperor's temperature rose to 39 degrees Celsius; to-day it has fallen to 38.4-5 degrees. During the night Dr. Hovells inserted the canula. Physicians have again sounded his lungs and found that they are not affected. This strengthens the opinion that an abscess has formed on the trachea.

Boulanger Writes a Letter.

PARIS, April 18.—General Boulanger has written a characteristic letter to the electors of the Department of the Nord, in which he says the 15th of April will henceforth be marked in the annals of France as the date of her true deliverance. He praised the electors for their perseverance and patriotism, and says they understood his profession of faith although the politicians did not. "What France demands," he says, "what the electors have affirmed through my name, is the necessity of a Constituent Assembly, before which all ambitions will be effaced, and which will give the people the large place they should occupy under a republic. This always has been promised them, but systematically withheld. We will labor to make the republic respected and indestructible."

Fatal Hunting Mistake.

COLUMBIA (S. C.), April 19.—Ben Davis, a colored man, and two young men named Perry, went into the woods in Georgetown county, yesterday, to hunt wild turkeys. The party separated, and as is customary in this kind of sport, one of the Perrys hid himself in the thick undergrowth and began gobbling like a turkey to locate the game. His imitation was so clever that Davis, who was also hiding a few hundred feet away, mistook Perry's gobbling for that of a genuine bird and attempted to creep up on him. Perry mistook the stealthily approaching darkey for a turkey, and firing away at him, the entire load of shot entered his face and breast, killing him instantly.

Brutal Lashing.

CHICAGO, April 13.—Times special from New Albany, Indiana: A band of "White Caps" last night took James Seebers, Robert Brumfield and Mrs. Nancy Wilson from the woman's house, stripped them and tied them to a tree. The men were given 125 lashes each, blood being drawn every stroke. The men fainted several times, but water was thrown on them, and they were resuscitated, only again to be lashed. The woman begged piteously to be spared, but was given twenty-five lashes when she fainted. When the victims were untied they fell to the ground and were left there, being taken away by friends.

A Youthful Murderer.

KANSAS CITY (Mo.), April 18.—John Bogard, 16 years old, pleaded guilty to-day to murder in the first degree. He was sentenced to be hanged. Bogard held the hands of James Weir, at Independence, Mo., last January, while Charles E. Meyer struck him on the head, killing him. Meyer was tried last week, convicted and sentenced to be hanged. Bogard is the youngest person ever sentenced to be hanged in Missouri.

A TALK ON THE PROSPECTS.

State Secretary McBride Gives His Views of Republican Chances at the Polls.

This writer spent a pleasant hour yesterday in conversation with Secretary of State McBride. He returned from his long sojourn in California, a week or two ago, much improved in health, took his seat in the state convention which assembled in Portland on the 11th inst., and has since returned to Salem. We found this popular state officer in his chair looking bright and cheerful, but still badly lamed with his wounded limb. After some general talk, the chances of republican success were discussed. Mr. McBride fully recognized the gravity of the situation, but was no way hopeless, of republican success. Prohibition speakers, he said, were making a special effort in this state to win converts to their cause, and this led to a suspicion in his mind of the good faith of the leaders of the movement, because he had several times remarked that they always arouse themselves into activity when a damaging blow can be inflicted on republicanism.

We venture to ask the state secretary how, in his opinion, was the best way to deal with this political schism.

Not by abusing these cold water fanatics, he said, they are too set in their belief for that to avail. Personally, he had but little patience with them, because their secession from the republican ranks was utterly causeless. The party they have deserted is in sympathy with their object, and a slight disagreement about methods is no justification for their going off.

We asked him which party in Oregon he thought suffered most by the defection.

The republicans, Mr. McBride, said, in the proportion of 3½ or perhaps 4 to one.

Ex-Gov. St. John's visit to this city was next mentioned, and our interlocutor gave full expression to his understanding of that eloquent apostle's motive. He thinks self seeking prompts, his action and not the good of the human race. If the people of Kansas had elected him governor a third time, he thinks he would have been content to carry out his temperance reform within the lines of his party.

St. John's free trade utterances Secretary McBride thinks come with poor grace from such a speaker. He has been many years in public life, discussing political issues and informing himself by reading, inquiry and reflection as to their merits. While he was in the republican party he was a strenuous advocate of protection. He took his stand on that question, and committed himself to that side as fully as repeated declarations can commit a speaker. His flop over at this late day, and at a time, too, when he is fighting the republicans, looks more like factiousness than honest conviction, and Mr. McBride could not give him credit for sincerity.

He believed in treating the prohibitionists with courtesy and becoming respect, as they had a perfect right to follow any political prophet they might set up; but he would like the republican press of the state to stand firmly by its principles, and use its best arguments to convince the members of that faith that the abolition of the liquor traffic can best be brought about by the use of moderate means.

Creamery Explosion.

TOPEKA (Kan.), April 19.—The town of Hazelton, near here, was the scene of an explosion last night which seriously injured four persons and will probably result in their death. While George Clark, manager of the Hazelton creamery, N. P. Moore, one of the partners, his little son and James Smith, were standing near the separator of the creamery, which was running at the rate of 40,000 revolutions per hour, it exploded, mangling all of them in a frightful manner.
